Lecture: The Importance of Love

Questions:

- Q1. When humanity first arrived on Earth in its many prototypes, what was the determining factor in ensuring the continuity of the species?
- Q2. What became part of the process of reproduction to help resolve the problem of density and vibrational instability?
- Q3. What affect did the love of the man and woman during the reproductive process have on the fetal Base Chakra?
- Q4. Besides love, what is foremost in determining the particular soul that incarnates into the newborn?
- Q5. What poses limits on the range of souls capable of entering the vibration emitted by a particular fetus?
- Q6. What influence does the intellectual mind have in the determining of which soul incarnates into the emerging fetus?
- Q7. What affect does the raised vibration of the fetal body have on determining which soul incarnates?
- Q8. How do the love vibrations of both the incoming seed-light and the fetal base chakra work to protect the soul's seed-light?
- Q9. During reproduction, how does the universe avoid the conflict of having 2 souls in one body?
- Q10. How does the love-cocoon ensure the protection of the soul's seed-light as part of the Base Chakra?
- Q11. What is a second factor preventing the transfer of soul light and the expansion of the soul within the physical body?

Answers:

- A1. Sex Drive
- A2. Love

A3. Love made the vibration of the fetal base chakra more compatible with the vibration of the soul's seed light as the soul took its place on the physical plane within the fetal base chakra.

A4. Foremost is the contractual arrangement made between the souls of the father, mother, and incarnating soul.

A5. What poses limits on the range of souls are the differences in the quality and quantity of love contributed by the individual male or female for each other and their child-to-be.

A6. The outcome is not something over which the intellectual mind has any influence, except that the will to love raises the vibration within the fetal body.

A7. By raising the fetal vibration, the result is an expansion of the range of souls available to enter the baby's body at birth.

A8. They combine to spin a protective cocoon of love within the base chakra in anticipation of the moment of birth.

A9. The incoming soul enters the fetal body upon its emergence from the mother's womb and not before.

A10. The love-cocoon is made effective by its ability to ensure that only vibrations of love can come in contact with the seed-light. Vibrations outside of love simply cannot penetrate the love-cocoon.

A11. Free-will. Until the individual is consciously and wilfully able to choose to work with his soul, the soul is obliged not to participate in its incarnation's life path.
